To Whom It May Concern

I am pleased to have the opportunity to recommend Yasmine Kalinchenko.

During my chairmanship of the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Science, Space, and Technology, the Committee employed a number of interns in order to encourage young people who are interested in federal science policies. Yasmine is among these and currently serves as an intern for the Committee during the fall of 2018.

Yasmine's principal duties are administrative: first point-of-contact for visitors and telephone callers, various services for Committee professional staff and support for Committee hearings and other official events. In all of her work, she is dependable, positive and team-oriented. These qualities would make her an asset for any organization that is seeking to add talented, motivated young people.

My staff and I are impressed with Yasmine's interest in public policy and public service. I hope you will give Yasmine serious consideration as a candidate for any appropriate position within your organization.

Sincerely,

Lamar Smith
Chairman

House Science, Space and Technology Committee
